

2014 Nonprofit Academy—April 16

Presented by United Way Olmsted County and Rochester Area Foundation

Volunteers are critical to the success of nonprofit organizations.. They are in all sorts of roles—board members, web-managers, grant writers, drivers, workers, and readers to name a few. Many organizations would fail to deliver to their clients without dedicated volunteers. Becky Nahvi , our presenter - from United Way Olmsted County has over 10 years of volunteer management experience in human service organizations. She holds a Certification in Volunteer Administration and completed MAVA's Volunteer Leadership Resources program. Her talk will include topics on—Current trends, integrating volunteers into all levels of your organization, engaging today's volunteer to maximize their happiness and your needs, sustaining volunteer involvement and deciding whether to coach or release a challenging volunteer.

Wednesday April 16, 8-11— United Way Rooms A&B
